AGSA learned with shock of the passing of Mr Mafole

PRETORIA - The Auditor General of South Africa (AGSA) has learned with shock about the passing of a former employee, Mpho Mafole. Mr Mafole was an employee of the AGSA for 16 years, serving in our Investigations Business Unit before moving on to pursue new opportunities earlier this year.

"We extend our deepest condolences to the Mafole family, former colleagues and friends who have worked with him. Although the circumstances of his passing are yet to be established, as the AGSA, we extend our sympathies to all colleagues in the accounting profession," said Harold Maloka, AGSA Communication.

The AGSA also extends condolences to the leadership and colleagues at Ekurhuleni Metropolitan Municipality. We hope and trust that the police will complete their investigations swiftly and that appropriate consequences will apply.
